

Walkability Comparison: Garfield vs Northview Heights Neighborhoods

Map By: Rahila Sule
February 3, 2023

Map Description: This map layout compares the walkability of Garfield and Northview Heights neighborhoods in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. The maps show the sidewalk infrastructure, building footprint, and topography of each neighborhood at the same scale. The layout also includes a map of Fort Pitt Playground in Garfield, highlighting its accessibility as a recreational area.

Garfield: The Ultimate Balance of Walkability and Accessibility

Garfield neighborhood in Pittsburgh has a higher walkability score compared to Northview Heights, primarily due to its more flat terrain and well-developed sidewalk infrastructure. The Fort Pitt Playground, located in Garfield, adds to the neighborhood's walkability by providing a convenient and accessible recreational area for residents and visitors to enjoy. In contrast, Northview Heights has a steeper terrain and limited sidewalk infrastructure in some areas, making walking less convenient and safe.

In conclusion, Garfield is the more walkable of the two neighborhoods, offering a combination of residential, commercial, and recreational areas that are easily accessible on foot.

- Legend
- Topo
  - Sidewalks
  - Playgrounds
  - Buildings
  - Neighborhoods

